

Generations in the Workplace

WHO NEEDS THIS PROGRAM?

Today's workforce can include up to five generations.

Each generation brings its own experiences and expectations. This program can provide essential skills to manage your diversity of your intergenerational team. Different mindsets can create collaboration or conflict within the work environment.

This program provides the strategy and tactics for managers to be more active in responding to the differences of an intergenerational workforce.

This course explores how we can bridge the perceived age gap to connect. Additionally, participants take ownership to create a culture that allows each generation to contribute to the mission of the organization.

LEARN HOW TO:

- Explore what Traditionalist, Boomers, X'ers ,Millennials and Generation Z each bring to the team.
- Explore your personal value system and discuss how those values impact the work environment.
- Apply strategies to work effectively and positively with each generation.
- Develop the awareness to look beyond generational stereotypes and focus on commonalities.
